

Before you spend money on a procedure, one question matters: can your debtor actually pay?

SolvaClear maps the solvency of your counterparty and gives you, for a fixed price, one clear recommendation on your specific file — not a generic score, but an answer to your question.

WHAT IS IN YOUR REPORT

- Identification and status of the counterparty, from the Belgian Crossroads Bank for Enterprises (KBO/BCE).
- The key figures from the most recently filed annual accounts — solvency, liquidity and how they have moved.
- An overview of known attachments from the Central Register of Notices (CBB), with amounts and dates, split into preferential and unsecured creditors.
- An analysis of your claim against the assets of the counterparty and against any other creditors.
- One unambiguous conclusion: start judicial proceedings (summons or IOS) or not, with a short reasoning.
- A visual gauge: a score out of 10, from red (do not spend the money) to green (proceed).

MORE THAN A STANDARD CREDIT REPORT

A generic screening gives you a statistical score based on accounting ratios. SolvaClear goes further, in three ways no automated tool combines:

- 1 The CBB. We consult the Central Register of Notices: insight into attachments already running or historically levied by other creditors — not a statistical presumption, but verified reality.
- 2 Your own claim. We weigh the size of your claim against the assets of the counterparty and against other known creditors — a proportionality analysis that a generic credit report, which does not know your file, cannot make.
- 3 Artificial intelligence. Our lawyers are supported by AI-assisted document analysis: every set of annual accounts and every CBB extract is screened quickly, completely and consistently, so no detail is lost — faster than a manual review, without giving up legal quality control, and at a sharp price.

THE RESULT: ONE SCORE, ONE RECOMMENDATION

Every SolvaClear report ends with a score out of 10 and an unambiguous recommendation — not a vague report full of reservations, but a concrete answer to the question of whether a procedure is worth the cost.
